

Cybersecurity Review – FZ Technology Services

Cybersecurity reviews should be done by all organizations on a regular basis. Here at FZ Technology Services, we have seen the devastating impact of cyber-attacks on companies large and small. The damages from an attack can be staggering and expensive, ranging anywhere from a monetary loss to possibly the permanent loss of employee, customer, or vendor credibility. If your defenses are breached, you could even be in danger of harming your business beyond repair. Taking action by inviting an external review of your security costs money, time and investment, but not taking action could have far greater consequences.

At FZ, we have dedicated cybersecurity specialists who will determine what your current cyber posture looks like and provide a plan to meet safety requirements. Even if your technology staff is equipped to do a self-certification review, it is incredibly prudent to get an objective outside opinion. Technology is constantly changing as are the threats to business security.

If you are a HIPAA covered entity, a government contractor, required to be PCI compliant or you work in the financial/accounting industry, this is already a requirement placed on your organization. The SEC views lax cybersecurity as an existential threat to business and is willing to penalize companies who fall short.

If you would like to know how your organization could benefit from a professional cybersecurity review, please call Tim Weidman at 402.963.4375 or you can reach him by email at tweidman@fzacpa.com.
